POLICY COMMITTEE MEETS MONDAY TO CONSIDER PEACE

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7.—The policy committee of the striking shopmen has been called to meet here Monday to ratify certain agreements tentatively made with Eastern railroads, a union leader declared here today. Union officials here refuse to be quoted. "We cannot talk," they said. "The gigantic proposition we are discussing might be wrecked by premature publicity. Several members of the executive committee were in session here today formulating plans for Monday's meeting.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION UNDER WAY AT BILLTOWN

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 7.—The annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion was opened here today by Fighting Joe Thompson, of Beaver Falls. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Hoagland and Deputy Attorney General Collins. Routine business was then taken up. The credentials committee reported on deegates and committees were appointed. Governor Sprou is expected to address the convention this afternoon. Nominations of State officers will take place Friday afternoon and elections will be held Saturday.

The special train carrying the members of John Shade Post of the American Legion, together with the Legion Band, will leave the New York Central station at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for the State convention of the Legion at Williamsport.

The Clearfield delegation will be one of the largest at Williamsport as they expect to have at least two hundred and fifty Legionnaires in addition to the fifty band members.

Great preparations are being made for the trip and it is needless to add that there will be a hot time in Billtown when our gang arrives and starts in to stir things up.

Commander Chase and Messrs Kelly, Brown and Leitzinger of the Committee on arrangements went down to Williamsport yesterday to look after things for the boys at that end.

Lord Plumer Is Sent By Britain To Defense Of City Of Constantinople

Constantinople, Greece, Sept. 7.—Great Britain has sent Field Marshal Lord Plumer, famous world war commander, to take charge of the defense of Constantinople, threatened with attack by the troops under Musefatima. At the same time nine British war ships arrived at Constanta to prevent a reported plan of Soviet Russia to send troops by water to assist the Turkish Nationalist commander in an assault upon the forte. The Greek forces retreating in a rout towards Symna have been completely defeated. It was reported that 403 officers and 2,000 men were taken today. Musefatima at the head of his army is reported as marching north towards Constantinople.

TROOPERS HELD FOR BEATING

Washington, Pa., Sept. 7.—Charged with brutally beating John Bella, a miner of Denbo, Corporals Smith and De Bose, of the State police, and A. J. Hyatt and Steve Call, coal and iron police, were held for court in $1,000 bail each, after a bitterly fought hearing here. Bell was brought to the county jail here in a badly battered condition about two weeks ago as the result of a battle growing out of sniping activities in Denbo.

Miss Bessie Connors, of Nashville Tenn., is visiting Mrs. F. D. Souders at her home on West Front street.

GEE, IT'S TOUGH TO BE SO FAR FROM THE SHORE

Atlantic City, N. J. Sept. 7.—With frocks covering a multitude of shapely shins and their faces the only part of their boasted beauty on view fifty-eight beauties were judged this afternoon in the annual autumn pageant. Working on the theory that most any girl can be beautiful if she lacks enough clothes, the real test of the beauties from all over the country came when they were wheeled past the judges in chairs, garbed in afternoon frocks. The girls will be judged tonight in evening gowns, the second degree of the contest. The third degree comes tomorrow with the girls dressed in bathing suits. Then the American Beauty will be chosen.

Prominent Ambridge Business Men Involved In Whiskey Running

Ambridge Pa., Sept. 7.—One man is dying, another is wounded ,and six men are under arrest today following an early morning gun battle between police and whiskey thieves at the warehouse of the Economy Distillery Company near here. Thieves had already made away with twelve barrels of whiskey valued at $25,000 and were returning for more when discovered. A gun battle followed and Frank Bolstingle was critically wounded. He is reported dying in a Sewickley hospital. The six men arrested include Harry Hare, aged 30 driver of the truck. Police decline to reveal the names of the other five and it is reported they are prominent business men of Ambridge.

ISSUE WARRANTS IN BURNING OF PENNSY PITTSBURGH SHOPS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 7.—Federal warrants for the arrest of J. M. Coursey and H. R. Hartley were issued here today in connection with the investigation into the cause of the round house fire in which seven were burned to death. Coursey and Hartley were alleged to have been hiding in the Glenwood shops shortly before the Thirtieth Street Round House of the Pennsylvania Railroad was destroyed by fire. Samuel Lewis, aged 27, of Buffalo, N. Y., arrested last Tuesday by Department of Justice agents was committeed to jail for five days today pending investigation of his story. Department of Justice agents refused to comment on Lewis story.

Seventeen Autoists Failed To Beat The Trains Last Month

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 77.—Automobiles accounted for seventeen of twenty crossing accidents in the State during July, according to figures made public here today. Twenty were killed and thirty seven were injured in fifty two grade crossing accidents. Automobiles were involved in thirty nine of the accidents. Eleven were killed in July last year.

CHIEFS AIM TO GET SETTLEMENT WEDGE IN THE RAIL DISPUTE

It Is Now Well Known That a Conference Has Been Held and Purposes Are Apparent.

MAY BRING SPLIT

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Shop union chiefs are dangling before one faction of the railroad executives a strike settlement plan which, according to one important strike leader here today they hope will bring about a break in the executive association ranks within a week and later lead to a nation-wide settlement.

Preliminary conferences on this plan are already under way with the holding of meetings in Baltimore, according to this official, and other executives, mostly heads of western lines, have been sounded.

The plan contemplates, it is said, the following main points.

Resumption of work on these roads with full seniority for strikers and wages on the basis authorized by the railroad board prior to June 30.

Acceptance by the railroads of a National agreement which will be insisted upon by the union leaders in any settlements later with other roads, and which will embody the 16 major points which have governed in the shop working rules.

The establishment of adjustment boards for any future disputes which will be thoroughly threshed out before any appeal is taken to the railroad labor board.

Pledges for Unions

In return, the unions are to pledge it is stated, fullest co-operation in getting all rolling stock and locomotives in working order.

The plum which the unions feel is concealed in their proffered pudding is a bigger share of the tremendous coal traffic now available for Eastern railroads and the equally tremendous crop movement business for Southern Western and Northwestern railroads. Refusal to accept the proposals of the union leaders, it is said, would work adversely for those carriers staying out, and, in the same manner that the bituminous coal strike was settled by John L. Lewis through the Cleveland agreement, rivalry among the roads and the unequal competition that would result would have a tendency to bring the doubters into the fold.

The immediate plan contemplated settlement of the strike on the Baltimore & Ohio, which taps the coal country east and west, the Norfolk & Western an important System, cutting through southern farm centers, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, tapping the northwest grain belt and the Pacific coast; the Rock Island and Burlington systems. Serving the great corn and wheat belts, and several other and lesser railroads whose condition is now reported so doubtful that settlement is necessary to avert possible receiverships.

Denied by Roads

Just how far the reported union plan will get is a matter of speculation here. The majority of the executives deny as did the coal operators prior to the bituminous settlement that they are even considering it.

But it is known that Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, came to Chicago last Friday and it is stated by competent authority, discussed conditions thoroughly with Bert M. Jewell, president of the shopmen, following which he visited all Baltimore & Ohio shops enroute East. Jewell was in Baltimore Wednesday, according to John Scott, secretary of the shopcrafts. This information was corroborated by his own family, who added that he would meet other shop leaders at the National Hotel, Washington, Thursday.

The Baltimore & Ohio has made one previous effort for settlement outside of the executive association

ANDY VOLSTEAD IS ABOUT QUIETEST CONGRESSMAN

Washington, D. C. Sept. 6.—The best little lid-clamper in Washington—thats' Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota, father of the well known prohibition enforcement law bearing his name.

Volstead's lid clamping proclivities have not been limited simply to clamping down the lid on the national thirst.

He puts the lid on a lot of legislation, and—

He also keeps a lid on his own lips.

It was as chairman of the judiciary committee of the house that Volstead gave his name to the prohibition law and thereby won a niche in history. And it is as chairman of the same committee that he is able to sink without trace the hordes of bills, resolutions and proposals of all sorts for repealing, modifying or setting aside the enforcement law. No pigeon-holes in congress are more crowded with dust-covered, forgotten documents than those of the judiciary committee. And no lid is clamped more tightly against possible consideration and enactment of measures disapproved by the committee chairman.

Among the bills buried under the Volstead lid are proposals to amend the constitution to permit wines and liquors of 10 per cent. alcoholic content; to permit beer of 2¾ per cent. alcohol; to permit the states to decide for themselves what constitutes "intoxicating liquors" under the eighteenth amendment; to provide a national referendum on prohibition, to transfer enforcement of prohibition from the treasury to the department act, to amend the act and so on, by the score.

These bills were introduced, referred to committee—then buried. The lid clamped shut on them and they were gone! And if you try to tilt the lid, you find sitting atop of it a small but grim and very determined man who doesn't argue or plead or waste time in words, but exercises the prerogatives of his position as committee chairman and the weight of the dignity that position gives him to hold the lid firm.

"I never discuss prohibition or the prohibition enforcement act," Volstead tells you if you seek to lead him afield into consideration of the merits of light wines and beer, prohibition polls, the wet influence in politics and kindred subjects.

Therein has been much of Volstead's paternal strength in protecting his legislative progeny.

Had he tried to argue the merits of his enforcement act, his enemies might have tangled and confused his statements and made capital of them But all Volstead says is:

"It is the law. The law must be enforced." And there's no good come back to that.

But on railroads or coal mines or matters not reerred to the judiciary committee for action, Volstead will talk as freely as the most ardent advocate of booze will discuss Volstead Those issues, and no prohibition, Volstead will tell you, are the serious problems to be faced just now.

There is probably no man in congress whose name is so widely known but about whom as an individual so little is known, as Volstead.

He might aptly be described as "The Little Gray Man."

Sixty-two years of age, slight of build, unassuming in carriage and presence, the outstanding factor in his appearance is the leaden-gray overtone that seems to enshroud him.

His plain, rather darkish-gray suit matches almost perfectly in hue the gray of his mustache and his hair, which in turn blend with the gray of his eyes. His serious, almost solemn, attitude toward all subjects of discussion further cast a grayish aura about his personality. There is no suggestion of color, of gaiety, or sparkle or scintillation about him. Only suiet, earnest, serious grayness.

Born in Goodhue county, Minn., in 1860, when the state was still an outpost of our northwestern frontier, Volstead is a product of the hard-working, serious thinking people with

PINCHOT ADDRESSES GRANGERS AT CENTRE HALL THIS MORNING

Editor's Note: An advance copy of Mr. McSparran's remarks has not been received and we regret our inability to record the result of Mr. McSparran's half of the inning.

* * * * * * * * *

* Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 7.—The *
* first real engagement of the po- * * litical campaign was fought at *
* Center Hall near here today. The * * Republican and Democratic can- *
* didates for Governor, Gifford *
* Pinchot and John A. McSparran, *
* spoke from the same platform in *
* the geographical center of the * * State to a Grange picnic. This * * was the first time in the cam- * * paign that the two candidates *
* have spoken to the same audi- *
* ence. *

* * * * * * * * *

In an address before the Grange Encampment at Centre Hall, Pa., this morning, Gifford Pinchot said:

"Before our State Government can be conducted openly, economically, and efficiently, many things must be done, and many changes must be made. To let in the light and clean up the mess at Harrisburg is a long, difficult, and many-sided undertaking. Without the support of the people it cannot be done at all. That is the first essential.

It is in no sense a one-man job. To carry it throught, the Governor and the Legislature must each do their part. Some things the Governor can do by himself; others the Legislature can do by itself; others can be done only by the Governor and the Legislature working together for the good of the State.

The things which the Legislature can do by itself belong to the Legislature, and do not require to be pointed out by me.

Things which the Governor can do by himself concern good housekeeping in the Government Departments at Harrisburg and throughout the State. They include such things as removing from the pay-roll office holders who do not earn their pay; protecting those who are loyal and efficient; and generally using modern business methods in the State Government.

What the Governor can do by himself is important. What the Governor and the Legislature must work together to get done is at least equally important. The Governor can submit a budget, but he cannot pass it. Only the Legislature can do that. The Governor can recommend changes in the legally established financial practice of the State, but he cannot enact the necessary legislation. Only the Legislature can do that. It is just as necessary that we should have a Legislature that will stand with the Governor in doing what ought to be done, as it is to have a Governor pledged to attempt it, and able to put it through. A Governor without a Legislature to support him is like a man without shoes walking on stony ground.

To get economy and efficiency at Harrisburg will require a complete reorganization of the Government and a thorough reconstruction of its finances. These are the big things, without which the people of Pennsylvania cannot have a good modern State Government. They have not got it now.

The Government of Pennsylvania does a fifty million dollar business every year. Many years of executive work in building up, managing, studying, and planning for the reorganization of State and National Government organization have given me a realizing sense of what the task of reorganization actually means. It will require knowledge, experience, and continuous hard work. The slapstick methods which we hear put forward on the stump would have about as much chance with it as a tinker with a lady's watch.

I am going to Harrisburg to carry out the things my platform promises. I shall do my best to offend no one ,injure no one, disregard no one. It is reasonably certain that I shall not please everyone. No Governor has to this date. Doubtless I shall not succeed in everything. But at least I will make a hard and honest try. And if at any time during the

TWO YEAR COST OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS IS SET AT 22 MILLION

Auditor General Lewis Replying To Pinchot, Says Half of Revenues Will Be Required.

PAYMENTS BEHIND

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—The next Legislature must appropriate approximately one half the general fund revenue of the state in order to maintain the present school system, according to an estimate made today by Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis. In making public fiscal information relative to school costs, a question likely to be one of the major factors in the present political campaign, Lewis reported that data in his office led to the conclusion that the schools would cost the state $45,222,356.76 during the next two appropriation years.

The analysis was made at the request of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor. A copy also was sent to Democratic candidate John A. McSparran, Governor Sproul and the King Citizens Committee.

Lewis reported that the Commonwealth today owes school districts $12,655,189.97. Over $8,000,000 of this was due on August 1st and unpaid warrants are now in the State Treasury for $4,286,853.28 due these districts February 1st this year. Warrants for the August 1st allotments have not been received from the Department of Public Instruction

Commissioner Haynes, Prohibition Director, To Be At Philipsburg

Roy Haynes, federal Prohibition commissioner of Washington, D. C., will make an address in Trinity Methodist church, Philipsburg, on Thursday evening, Sept 14th at which time the Centre County Women's Christian Temperance Union will be holding its annual convention here.

As head of the prohibition enforcement branch of the federal government Commissioner Haynes is probably more accurately informed on what is being done to enforce the Volstead law, what obstacles have been overcome and what must still be overcome to make the measure effective, than any other man in the country.

Real interest is being manifested in his forthcoming visit and address.

Poisoned Whiskey Kills Two More In New York; Total Is Ten This Week

New York, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Poisoned whiskey took two more lives here today, bringing the total up to ten since Labor Day. M. J. Connolly, aged 55, and his brother-in-law Thomas Pagen, were the latest victims. Their deaths were diagnosed as being due to wood alcohol poisoning. Three persons, two of them women, are being held in jail without bail in connection with the death of these men.

WILL ASSESS LOCAL MINERS TO PAY FOR AID TO STRIKERS

Money to provide for families of miners still on strike in District No. 2 will be raised by assessment, it was announced yesterday by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

The plan is to assess each miner who has returned to work in union operations $1 each week or $2 each pay day. This will bring into the fund approximately $90,000 every two weeks. It is estimated that 45,000 miners have returned to their jobs in mines where there has been a settlement. There ar 20,000 workmen still idle in District No. 2, according to President John Brophy.

It is expetced to put the relief plan into effect about the middle of this month. If there is no settlement in Somerset county before cold weather arrives, arrangements will be made to house families of striking miners now living in tents. There will be sufficient funds on hand, President Brophy says, to care for the needy families.

As the strike in the non-union district continues, miners are leaving the Somerset areas, moving to the union fields, President Brophy declared last night.

The attention of the international union of mine workers has been called to the wholesale evictions in the Somerset sector, President Brophy stated last night. According to union officials, families are being evicted from their homes every day thru court action. It is for these families the relief fund is being created and unless there is a settlement between the miners and operators before many weeks, the fund will be needed, it is believed.

AGED LODGE KEEPER TELLS OF MURDER OF HIS HOUSEKEEPER

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 7.—"I had her with me alone in a canoe for the first time. I asked her if she would have me, but she said I was too old. I was jealous of the young men then." Omar P. Roberts, aged 68, noted guide, made the above declaration of his motive in burning to death pretty 19-year-old Flora Gray in a confession which was introduced as evidence today. Roberts was held for the supreme court. He made a complete confession which was witnessed by several officials in which he told of the hopeless passion for the girl inspired by that one canoe ride. After being repulsed by the girl, he planned to take by force what she refused him. He crept up stairs in the hunting lodge where she, his housekeeper, lay sleeping. She resisted his assault and he rushed outside and secured a bucket of gasoline which he had in readiness, saturated with the gasoline the bundle of bedclothing in which he had bound the girl, and set fire to it.

THREE DEAD, THREE WOUNDED, WHEN INFURIATED FATHER USES SHOTGUN IN CHILDREN'S NEIGHBORHOOD FIGHT

York, S. C., Sept. 7.—Three are dead and three more are wounded here today as a result of the running amuck of William C. Farris, a textile worker at Clover, ten miles north of here last night. Farris infuriated over quarrels said to have occurred between his children and the Taylor family grabbed a shot gun loaded with buckshot and instantly killed Claude Johnson, aged 21, a cousin of the Taylors, Lela Taylor, aged 16, and Newton Taylor, aged 13, died later in a hospital from wounds received, according to authorities. Gertrude Taylor, aged 18, is wounded and is not expected to live. Fred and Dollie Taylor are also seriously wounded.

"That chap! When he was in the full cry and ecstasy of his hunt after Sabre, the perspiration streamed down his face like running oil, and he'd flap his great red tongue around his jaws and mop his streaming face and chuck away his streaming mane; and all the time he'd be stooping down to Twyning, and while he was stooping and Twyning prompting him with the venom pricking and bursting in the corners of his mouth, all the time he was stooping this chap would leave that great forefinger waggling away at Sabre, and Sabre clutching the box, and his face in a knot, and his throat in a lump and chocking out 'Look here—. Look here—'

"I tell you . . .

"I was standing right across the court at right angles to him. I was wedged tight. Scarcely breathe, let alone move. I wrote on a bit of paper to Sabre that I was here and let him get up and ask for me. Sabre snatched the thing as if he was mad at it, and read it, and buzzed it on the floor and ground his heel on it. Just to show me, I suppose. Nice! Poor devil, my gooseberry eyes went up about ten degrees. Bit later I had another shot. I—well, I'll come to that in a minute."

II

"They pushed off the case with the obvious witnesses—police, doctor, and so on. Then the thing hardened down. Then Sabre saw what was coming at him—saw it at a clap and never had remotely dreamt of it; saw it like a tiger coming down the street to devour him; saw it like the lid of hell slowly slipping away before his eyes. Saw it! I was watching him. He saw it and things—age, grayness, lasting and 'immovable calamity—I don't know what—frightful things—came down on his face like the dust of ashes settling on a polished surface.

"You see, what this Humpo fiend was laying out for was, first that Sabre was the father of the girl's child, second that he'd deliberately put the poison in her way, and brutally told her he was done with her, and gone off and left her so that she should do what she had done and be be rid of her. Yes. Yes, old man. And he'd got a case! By the living Jingo, he'd got such a case as a Crown prosecutor only dreams about after a good dinner and three parts of a bottle of port.

"Listen. Just listen and see for yourself. Worked off the police evidence and the doctor, d'you see? Then—'Mr. Bright!' Old man comes up into the box. Stands there massive, bowed with grief, chest heaving, voice coming out of it like an organ in the Dead March. Stands there like the father of Virginia thinking of Appius Claudius.

"Like this, his evidence went: Was father of the deceased woman (as they called her). Was employed as foreman at Fortune, East and Sabre's. Had seen the body and identified it. So on, so on.

"Then Humpo gets on to him. Was his daughter the sort of girl to meditate taking her life?—'Never! Never!' Great rending cry that went down to your marrow.

"Was any particular individual instrumental in obtaining for her work which took her from beneath his roof?—'There! There!' Clenched fist and half his body over the box towards Sabre.

"They shut him up.

"'Answer the question, please, Mr. Bright.'—'Mr. Sabre led to her first going from me. Mr. Sabre!'

"Was the situation thus obtained for the girl nearer her father's house or nearer Mr. Sabre's—'Not a quarter of an hour, not ten minutes, from Mr. Sabre's house.'

"Had the witness any knowledge as to whether this man Sabre was a frequent visitor at the place of the girl's situation?—'Constantly, constantly, night after night he was there!'

"'Was he, indeed?' says Humpo, mightily interested. 'Was he, indeed? There were perhaps great friends of his own standing there, one or two men chums, no doubt?'—'No one! No one!' cries the old man. 'No one but an old invalid lady, nigh bedridden, past seventy, and my daughter, my daughter, my Effie.'

"Had the witness recently been shown a diary kept by Mr. Twyning at that period?—'Yes! Yes!'

"And it contained frequent reference to Sabre's mention in the office of those visits?—'Yes! Yes!'

"Did one entry reveal the fact that on one occasion this Sabre spent an entire night there?

"'Look here—' bursts out old Sabre. 'Look here—'

"Can't get any farther. 'Yes,' groans old Bright out of his heaving chest. 'Yes. A night there.'

"And on the very next day, the very next day, did this man Sabre rush off and enlist?—'Yes. Yes.'

"Viewed in the light of the subsequent events, did that sudden burst of patriotism bear any particular interpretation?—'Running away from it,' heaves the old man. 'Running away from it.'

"'Look here—' from Sabre again. 'Look here—' Same result.

"So this Humpo chap went on, piling it up from old Bright like that, old man; and all the time getting deeper and getting worse, of course. Sabre getting the girl into his own house after the old lady's death removes the girl from the neighborhood; curious suddenness of the girl's dismissal during Sabre's leave; girl going straight to Sabre immediately able to walk after birth of child, and so on. Blacker and blacker, worse and worse.

"And then Humpo ends, 'A final question, Mr. Bright, and I can release you from the painful, the pitiable ordeal it has been my sad duty to inflict upon you. A final question: 'Have you in your own mind suspicions of the identity of this unhappy woman's betrayer?' Old man cannot speak for emotion. Only nods, hands at his breast like a prophet about to tear his raiment. Only nods.

"'Do you see him in this court?' "Old man hurls out his arms towards Sabre. Shouts, 'There! There!'

"Warm-hearted and excellent Iscariot leaps up and leads him tottering from the box; court seethes and groans with emotion; Humpo wipes his streaming face, Sabre stammers out, 'Look here— Look here—' Case goes on."

"Someone bawls, 'Next witness. Mark Sabre.'

"Court draws an enormous breath and gets itself ready for butchery to make a Tidborough holiday."

CHAPTER VI

I

HAPGOOD went on:

"He was distraught. He was speechless. He was clean crazed.

"At the very beginning, with the coroner, he wouldn't use the word 'the deceased.' Insisted on keeping calling her Effie. Coroner kept pulling him up over it, and about the twentieth time pulled him up hard.

"Poor chap threw out his arms like he was throwing the word away and then hammered on the ledge. 'I won't say deceased. I won't call her the deceased. Vile word. Horrible word. Obscene, beastly, hateful, word. I won't call her it. Why should I call her the deceased?'

"'Control yourself,' says Buddha. 'Control yourself.'

"He only waved and thumped again. 'I won't. I won't. I knew the girl. I was fond of the girl. She was my friend. She was fond of me. I did more for her than anyone in this court—her father or anyone. When she was in trouble she came to me and I succored her. She cooked my meals for me. We went through it together. I've known her for years. I've liked her for years. And now she's dead and you turn around and tell me to call her deceased. Effie. Effie! Do you hear?—Effie!'

"They couldn't stop him. He was like a sick wolf then, cornered, and Buddha like a big, wary boarhound going in at him and jumping up on the wall out of the way when he made his dashes and then coming down and going in at him again.

"'What date did the deceased leave your wife's employment?'

"'In March. Look here—'

"'Did she leave of her own wish or was she dismissed?'

"'Look here—'

"'Was she dismissed because your wife suspected you of relations with her?'

"'Look here—'

"'Answer the question, sir.'

"'Look here—'

"'Very well, sir. Answer me this question then. Is it a fact that your wife has instituted divorce proceedings against you?'

"'Look here—'

"Court surging with sensation at this dramatic disclosure. Humpo mopping his face, keeping the great forefinger going.

"'Is it the fact that in these proceedings the deceased woman is named as corespondent?'

"'Look here—'

"'You keep asking me to look here, sir, but you tell me nothing. I ask you plain questions. Have you nothing better than, "Look here?" Is it the fact that these papers were served on you at Brighton on the occasion of your flight?'

"'Flight—flight— Look here—'

"'Is it the fact?'

"'Yes. Brighton, yes. But, look here—flight! flight! Holiday, I tell you. Holiday.'

"'Holiday!' cries Humpo. 'I thank you for that word. We will examine it in a moment. Let me ask you to carry back your mind to the summer of 1915—' and he takes the unhappy man through all the stuff he had got out of old Bright—Sabre's apparently uncalled-for interest in the girl, first getting her from her father's house to the neighborhood of his own, then under his own roof, and all the rest of the unholy chain of it. Then he has a chat with Twyning, then mops himself dry, and then hurls in again.

"'Now, sir, this holiday. Did you make any preparations for it, any little purchases?'

"'No. Purchases? No. Look here—'

"'Never mind about "Look here," sir. No purchases? What about the oxalic acid? For what purpose?'

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 10 months old boy. ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Men make better shorthand writers d typists than women, acording to ofessor J. M. Lahy. He made that nouncement following his experi-nt with several hundred of both xes whom he tested for speed and curacy. Paycological tests were o given, Mr. Lahy said.

"My experiments prove conclu-ely that men listen, understand d react more rapidly than women spite the higher degree of female nsitiveness.

"Women are less accurate and less pendable owing to their diffulty in ncentrating."

Objecting feminists here point out at large department stores employ usands of women therefore women ist be a success in business, but a re manager, interviewed by the tis Journal, said:

'We employ women for only two asons. First because we can hire m for less money than men, and ond, men will buy more from a man than they will from a man."

* * * *

They tell us that the Jews were on earth to get all the money and de  have no reason to believe y are not going to eventually ke good on the proposition, it is ng to be some time before they get all of Henry Ford's "stuff" away from him.

Within a year Henry Ford has accumulated more cash than probably any other man in America. Today his cash on hand amounts to more than $160,000,000 and to use the motor magnate's own words he "can't tell within fifteen million or so" just what he has in the bank.

A year ago the Ford Motor Company was just emerging from the worst depression in its history, and despite the offers of Wall Street bankers of millions for a loan, Ford succeeded by his own efforts in putting his business on its feet.

He says his refusal to deal with Wall street and banks was due to several causes. First, he says, they insisted that for a loan of a few million they should be allowed to name the Treasurer of the company and have a voice in the management of the company. Again, Ford asserts, he did not need to borrow from banks for the reason that he could see his way clear to revive his business.

With the aid of experts he ascertained what every item was costing. He turned millions of dollars tied up in surplus material into cash by stopping purchases of raw material and using what the company had. This policy holds today. It is possible to buy what is needed in the open markets and transport it to the Ford factories in a much shorter space of time than any other manufacturer.

It is estimated that Ford is able to keep at least $550,000,000 in his treasury by not buying huge quantities in advance.

Mr. Ford's next step was to make a thorough study of the transportation problems and so linking his Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad with ship connections and New York State barge transportation that he transport goods to the East for distribution much quicker and cheaper than others. In this way he saved many millions more by not having an enormous quantity of goods in storage here for the purpose of meeting orders.

The money he thus saved was immediately turned back into business. When depression hit the automobile world he eliminated all waste man power. He succeeded in producing more automobiles than during the war period with some 10,000 less men. This item alone save Ford more than $2550,000 a week in the payroll.

Ford says his success in accumulating $160,000,000 cash in the last year to say nothing of paying off more than $15,000,000 in notes and debts and building additions to the company plants, is due entirely to his desire to give purchasers of Ford cars the best possible value for their money and securing their confidence through cheap, efficient management.

Ford owns railroads, ships, mines, coal and iron, huge timber tracts, the Lincoln Motor Company and vast real estate holdings in the northern part of Michigan.

IS SUCH A FINE SPIRIT TO BE PENALIZED?

No sooner were the valiant lads of Clearfield and vicinity back to their homes from the war than they began to take their places as a moving force in our civic life, banded together in the American Legion.

One of the first things they did was to organize a Legion Post and the fact that they hold Charter No. 6 attests very strongly to their being "on their toes."

At once the Legion Post became one of the organizations of which this city is proud and their record up to date has made their reputation even more secure.

One of the really great things the American Legion has done for Clearfield is the organization of The Clearfield American Legion Band.

The band proposition was one of the first they tackled. Taking in a few of the older musicians of the city as a nucleus the Legion has spared no expense or effort to turn out a band that would be a credit to the Legion and the city.

Tomorrow morning this band, with at least two hundred rooters, will leave for the Legion Convention at Williamsport, where it will figure in the parade and we hope, in the contest.

The music committee of the convention, however, has made a ruling requiring that no band can compete except one having exclusive Legion membership; a ruling that is manifestly unfair to Post No. 6. and if there is no change in this arbitrary ruling it will be deeply resented, not only by the local Legion but by every loyal Clearfielder.

A band contest is the "dress affair" of any convention. As it stands now, while the Clearfield American Legion Band will be in Williamsport tomorrow; once there it will be "all dressed up and no place to go."

Since the day of the armistice, Post No. 6 has strived to take just such a band to a state convention, as they have built up entirely by their own efforts. Their pluck and perseverence have been jewels.

Is such a fine spirit to be penalized?

ELECTRIAL WORKERS SEEK TO RESTRAIN DAUGHERTY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—A petition to restrain United States District Attorney Payton Gordon from enforcing the Daugherty strike injunction was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The workers claimed that the Daugherty court order infringes upon their rights under the Federal constitution. They specifically asked the injunction to prevent the Government from interfering with the use of the funds of the Electrical Workers Union to pay strike benefits.

Let Johnson Do It

"Os" Long was in from the mountains this morning. He reports every thing dry as a covered bridge out that way and says that if they don't soon get some rain they propose asking the Anti-Saloon League to send out some drinking water for the rattlesnakes that are coming in droves to Anderson Creek, near the Long home to drink and bathe.

We asked the truthful mountaineer to give us a lie or nature fake that we might doll up and present to Progress readers, but "Os" said he could not do it. He was out of the lying business now as they were thinking of making him president of an organization having in mind the building of a new church out his way and he had to agree to quit lying before taking the job.

"Os" said in addition to the above and a lot of other things, that the job of "Chief truth killer" out that way had been turned over to Frank Johnson, who is an expert, and can out-wind, outspin and out lie any other fellow on the mountains between Penfield and Clearfield, bar none. He also promised to have Johnson show us his credentials when we go out that way.

Educated in public schools and at St. Olaf's college, he was admitted to the bar of Minnesota in 1884. After having served as president of the board of education, city attorney and mayor of his home town he was county attorney of Yellow Medicine county for fourteen years before being elected to congress. He is now completing his tenth term as representative. His one child—a daughter—is an attorney and is practicing law in the Volstead office at Granite City, Minn.

and failed. The Southern system is also known to be anxious to end the strike. Secretary Scott said that one big western railroad Monday asked an immediate conference to settle, and this road is believed to be the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Pres. ident H. E. Bryan said today that he "knew something" of the proposed conferences, but that he did not know whether "I am being considered in the reported session down east."

Wedge for Peace

Settlement of the strike on the Baltimore & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, the Southern, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Rock Island and Burlington systems and other roads reported favoring the plan would soon return 85,000 miles of road back to normal, would be an important wedge for National peace and would provide a coast-to-coast belt, it is stated.

In the fact of the reported peace plan, the American Association of Railroad Exexcutives issued a statement saying "statements that a settlement has been reached in the shopmen's strike is absolutely without foundation. The roads are standing squarely on the platform adopted at their meeting August 23, 1922."

coming four years I find it necessary, in order to get done any of the things which the voters have elected me to do, I shall go straight to the people for help. They have the power. They have the right to decide. They can get what they want by letting their servants in office know their will. I shall put the question up to them."

Missouri Fable.

Once there was an eccentric farmer who owned a steam thresher and did not drive it right through Main street in the county seat town, although by so doing he would not have been going more than four miles out of a direct line toward the place where he wished to arrive.—Kansas City Star.

Coquette's Explanation.

A young man recently asked one of the opposite sex why girls so frequently become engaged to several fellows at once. "A smoker like you shouldn't have asked that," she replied with a laugh. "When you have only one match, doesn't it generally go out?"—Boston Transcript.

YOUNGEST VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR IS BEING SOUGHT

The coming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Des Moines has brought to the fore numerous claimants to the rather paradoxical distinction of being the "youngest veteran" of the Civil War. Warren D. Second, of New Rochelle, N. Y., in applying for reservations says the honor is his, since he is only 72 years old. He has never missed a meeting of the organization.

When the subject of youthful soldiers of the Civil War is mentioned, the name of Johnny Clem, the "drummer boy of Shiloh," invariably comes to mind. He was born in Newark, Ohio, in 1851 and in May, 1861, attempted to enlist as a drummer boy with the Third Ohio Volunteers, but was rejected on account of his diminutive stature as well as his age. The following year he was accepted by the Twenty-second Michigan Infantry. At the battle of Shiloh his drum was shattered by a Confederate shell. At the battle of Chickamauga, when he was only twelve, he carried a musket instead of a drum and displayed conduct that brought him promotion to the rank of sergeant. After serving in the thickest of the fight and receiving three bullet holes through his hat, he became separated from his companions. A mounted Confederate colonel called to him to halt and surrender. Johnny halted, but did not surrender. Instead he raised his gun and shot and killed the colonel. He served throughout the war and in 1871 was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry by President Grant. This was followed by a course of training at the Fortress Monroe artillery school.

Today he is a retired major general living in Washington after a distinguished carreer in the regular army, including valuable service as quartermaster general in the Philippines. It would seem that Mr. Second, of New Rochelle, will have to yield the title of "youngest veteran" to Gen. Clem, but he may gain the place on the list indicated by his name. The Civil war more than any of our wars was notable for the conflict, and the southern army had its share.

Description That Was Apt.

Whistler once described himself as "an artist whose work is without the pale of gross popularity and whose purse is consequently not heavy with ill-gotten gold."

Family Portraits.

There is a beautiful home on Long Island that the owners wished to lease for the summer. Two parvenus with social ambition thought this residence might be the means of launching them into local society, so they went to look it over. Upon entering the boudoir of a young woman member of the family, their eyes fell upon a beautiful Madonna on the wall. They also observed a Beatrice. One of the party said, "Well, if we do take the house, will you please remove the family portraits?"—Judge.

The Mississippi river has a total length of 2,804 miles. The Missouri affluent, with the lower Mississippi, gives a total length of 4,382 miles and forms the longest river on the globe.

First Outside Clinic For Babies A Success In The Fourth Ward

The local chapter of the Red Cross has been greatly encouraged by the attendance and interest shown in their Thursday afternoon Baby Health Clinics held at their rooms in the Murray Building, and have planned to bring this helpful work nearer the homes of those interested who have been unable to attend, by holding outside clinics in various localities.

The first of these was held in lower East End yesterday afternoon, where Miss Dill, who is in charge of this work, and her staff spent a very interesting and instructive hour with a number of mothers with their babies, discussing health problems.

The interest and co-operation of the Junior Womans Club can always be depended upon in any matter of common interest, and a committee of their members was on hand to dispense cooling lemonade to the audience, which included about one hundred young Americans in the making, white, black, native and foreign.

This is a great work, carrying the health message where there is a hunger for it. Better Babies Make Better Citizens—the average of the health of a community comes mighty near to being a gauge of the average of its citizenship in a broad sense.

The Red Cross and its staff are at your disposal. They want you to call on them whenever you need their help. Murray Building. Bell 'phone 57, H. & C. 'phone. 39 A nominal charge is made to such persons as are able to pay, but to those who are not, the service is free.

COURT NOTES

The jury after hearing the evidence in the case of Carl Fullerton against W. B. Holmes, which was tried before Judge Bell yesterday, returned a verdict in favor of Fullerton for $162.50

This case grew out of the upsetting of a truck load of furniture which was being hauled from Boggs township to Clearfield. The truck went through a defective bridge and was really no fault of the drayman, but the jury decided he was liable to Mr. Fullerton for the damage to his furniture.

A case which is attracting considerable interest on account of its peculiar features was placed on trial in Judge Bell's court yesterday afternoon. The principals are John Miller, plaintiff, and Orville Waite, Wm. Mapstone and J. L. Gamble, defendants.

This suit grows out of an accident which occurred about the end of the rabbit hunting season last year. The three defendants, who are residents of the mining town of Moran, were out hunting rabbits near Ginter, this county. They were hunting near the home of John Miller and when a rabbit jumped up in front of them all three men fired at it with their shotguns.

Mrs. Mary Miller, an aged woman and mother of the prosecutor in this case, was sick and lying on a couch in the Miller home. A "punkin" or ounce ball from one of the shotguns entered the house and striking the sick woman in the body inflicted a serious wound.

Mrs. Miller was removed to the Cottage State Hospital and several weeks following the accident her death ensued.

Suit was then entered against Waite, Mapstone and Gamble by John Miller, the son, who is asking $10,000 for the injury to his mother.

The attorneys interested are A. R. Chase for the plaintiff and John B. McGrath for the defendants.

An Easier Job.

"Hit ain' no cinch t' manage a lop-eared mewl," said Charcoal Eph, ruminatively, "but ef'n a man got 't argue wid a red-haided wife 'bout her opinions, he hettah git hisse a job plowin'."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Daily Thought.

Perhaps the early grave which men weep over may be meant to save.—Byron.

Precocity.

Precocity may be defined as a form of premature mental development that is instanced when a child five years old has learned that the drumstick is not the best part of a turkey gobbler—Houston Post.

Pineapple Leaves Valuable.

The leaves of the pineapple plant yield one of the finest of vegetable fibers, used in the Philippines for making pineapple cloth, a highly esteemed fabric for embroidery and other fancy work.

Buffaloes Roamed Far West.

Buffalo bones have recently been found in a cave in Malheur county, Oregon, 100 miles farther west than any other authoritative evidence of the occurrence of buffalo heretofore.

Principles and Sentiments.

I have all reverence for principles which grow out of sentiments; but as to sentiments which grow out of principles, you shall scarcely build a house of cards thereon.—Jacobi.

Day of Joy at Hand.

In spite of the rain that had been pelting down most of the day, Jimmy had seemed to be in unusually good spirits. When asked the cause of his beaming countenance, the youngster rattled his little bank and replied: "Duddy said I was saving my pennies for a rainy day; now it's raining an' I kin spend 'em."

Superlative.

"He had braved a thousand dangers in the land of savage strangers, war and famine, fire and tempest, epidemics and the rest." (This was in metrical form in the London Chronicle.) "But yesterday at five (and it's lucky he's alive), he was hurt in a collision with a boy on roller skates."

HEAT WAVE WILL LOSE GRIP FRIDAY

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7.—The heat wave continued to hold the country in its grip today as far west as the Rocky Mountains. In some parts of the West there was a little fall in temperature yesterday but the heat wave threatened to fall again today. Cooler weather late Friday or Saturday was the cheering word from the Weather Bureau here. The heat wave was caused by a low over the Dakotas and a corresponding high over the Appalachians.

FEDERAL TRADE BODY OPPOSES STEEL MERGER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—The Federal Trade Commisison holds that the proposed merger of the Midvale Steel Company, Republican Iron & Steel and Inland Steel Company would violate the law and has filed a formal complaint against the completion of the merger. The Commission reported to the Senate today. The case was identical with that of the Bessemer-Lackawanna merger which the Commisison refused to sanction.

FORDSON SHOW WILL PROVE BELT'S WORTH

Every tractor owner realizes the necessity of securing the same efficiency from his tractor on power jobs as he expects from it on traction work, and every tractor owner will undoubtedly desire to attend the Fordson industrial exhibition to be held in Pittsburgh the early part of September, and be convinced that the Little Giant Fordson tractor belt, manufactured by the United States Rubber Co., Youngstown, O., is the right belt for their tractor.

The Little Giant tractor belt is an endless belt, made of stitched canvas, which has long been acknowledged as the most satisfactory and economical for power work on the farm. The Little Giant is the best grade of stitched canvas belt that can be made. Weight and strength have been put into it to more than meet the Fordson power transmission requirements. It is a quality belt in every sense of the word and will give quality service on the Fordson and the machinery with which the Fordson is used.

POLICY COMMITTEE MEETS MONDAY TO CONSIDER PEACE

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7.—The policy committee of the striking shopmen has been called to meet here Monday to ratify certain agreements tentatively made with Eastern railroads, a union leader declared here today. Union officials here refuse to be quoted. "We cannot talk," they said. "The gigantic proposition we are discussing might be wrecked by premature publicity. Several members of the executive committee were in session here today formulating plans for Monday's meeting.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION UNDER WAY AT BILLTOWN

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 7.—The annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion was opened here today by Fighting Joe Thompson, of Beaver Falls. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Hoagland and Deputy Attorney General Collins. Routine business was then taken up. The credentials committee reported on deegates and committees were appointed. Governor Sprou is expected to address the convention this afternoon. Nominations of State officers will take place Friday afternoon and elections will be held Saturday.

The special train carrying the members of John Shade Post of the American Legion, together with the Legion Band, will leave the New York Central station at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for the State convention of the Legion at Williamsport.

The Clearfield delegation will be one of the largest at Williamsport as they expect to have at least two hundred and fifty Legionnaires in addition to the fifty band members.

Great preparations are being made for the trip and it is needless to add that there will be a hot time in Billtown when our gang arrives and starts in to stir things up.

Commander Chase and Messrs Kelly, Brown and Leitzinger of the Committee on arrangements went down to Williamsport yesterday to look after things for the boys at that end.

Lord Plumer Is Sent By Britain To Defense Of City Of Constantinople

Constantinople, Greece, Sept. 7.—Great Britain has sent Field Marshal Lord Plumer, famous world war commander, to take charge of the defense of Constantinople, threatened with attack by the troops under Musefatima. At the same time nine British war ships arrived at Constanta to prevent a reported plan of Soviet Russia to send troops by water to assist the Turkish Nationalist commander in an assault upon the Porte. The Greek forces retreating in a rout towards Symna have been completely defeated. It was reported that 403 officers and 2,000 men were taken today. Musefatima at the head of his army is reported as marching north towards Constantinople.

Hyatt and Steve Call, coal and iron police, were held for court in $1,000 bail each, after a bitterly fought hearing here. Bell was brought to the county jail here in a badly battered condition about two weeks ago as the result of a battle growing out of sniping activities in Denbo.

The girls will be judged tonight in evening gowns, the second degree of the contest. The third degree comes tomorrow with the girls dressed in bathing suits. Then the American Beauty will be chosen.

Prominent Ambridge Business Men Involved In Whiskey Running

Ambridge Pa., Sept. 7.—One man is dying, another is wounded ,and six men are under arrest today following an early morning gun battle between police and whiskey thieves at the warehouse of the Economy Distillery Company near here. He is reported dying in a Sewickley hospital. The six men arrested include Harry Hare, aged 30 driver of the truck. Police decline to reveal the names of the other five and it is reported they are prominent business men of Ambridge.

ISSUE WARRANTS IN BURNING OF PENNSY PITTSBURGH SHOPS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 7.—Federal warrants for the arrest of J. M. Coursey and H. R. Coursey and Hartley were alleged to have been hiding in the Glenwood shops shortly before the Thirtieth Street Round House of the Pennsylvania Railroad was destroyed by fire. Samuel Lewis, aged 27, of Buffalo, N. Y., arrested last Tuesday by Department of Justice agents was committeed to jail for five days today pending investigation of his story. Department of Justice agents refused to comment on Lewis story.

CHIEFS AIM TO GET SETTLEMENT WEDGE IN THE RAIL DISPUTE

It Is Now Well Known That a Conference Has Been Held and Purposes Are Apparent.

MAY BRING SPLIT

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Shop union chiefs are dangling before one faction of the railroad executives a strike settlement plan which, according to one important strike leader here today they hope will bring about a break in the executive association ranks within a week and later lead to a nation-wide settlement.

Preliminary conferences on this plan are already under way with the holding of meetings in Baltimore, according to this official, and other executives, mostly heads of western lines, have been sounded.

The plan contemplates, it is said, the following main points.

Resumption of work on these roads with full seniority for strikers and wages on the basis authorized by the railroad board prior to June 30.

Acceptance by the railroads of a National agreement which will be insisted upon by the union leaders in any settlements later with other roads, and which will embody the 16 major points which have governed in the shop working rules.

The establishment of adjustment boards for any future disputes which will be thoroughly threshed out before any appeal is taken to the railroad labor board.

Pledges for Unions

In return, the unions are to pledge it is stated, fullest co-operation in getting all rolling stock and locomotives in working order.

The plum which the unions feel is concealed in their proffered pudding is a bigger share of the tremendous coal traffic now available for Eastern railroads and the equally tremendous crop movement business for Southern Western and Northwestern railroads. Refusal to accept the proposals of the union leaders, it is said, would work adversely for those carriers staying out, and, in the same manner that the bituminous coal strike was settled by John L. Lewis through the Cleveland agreement, rivalry among the roads and the unequal competition that would result would have a tendency to bring the doubters into the fold.

The immediate plan contemplated settlement of the strike on the Baltimore & Ohio, which taps the coal country east and west, the Norfolk & Western an important System, cutting through southern farm centers, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, tapping the northwest grain belt and the Pacific coast; the Rock Island and Burlington systems. Serving the great corn and wheat belts, and several other and lesser railroads whose condition is now reported so doubtful that settlement is necessary to avert possible receiverships.

Denied by Roads

Just how far the reported union plan will get is a matter of speculation here. The majority of the executives deny as did the coal operators prior to the bituminous settlement that they are even considering it.

But it is known that Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, came to Chicago last Friday and it is stated by competent authority, discussed conditions thoroughly with Bert M. Jewell, president of the shopmen, following which he visited all Baltimore & Ohio shops enroute East. Jewell was in Baltimore Wednesday, according to John Scott, secretary of the shopcrafts. This information was corroborated by his own family, who added that he would meet other shop leaders at the National Hotel, Washington, Thursday.

The Baltimore & Ohio has made one previous effort for settlement outside of the executive association

ANDY VOLSTEAD IS ABOUT QUIETEST CONGRESSMAN

Washington, D. C. Sept. 6.—The best little lid-clamper in Washington—thats' Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota, father of the well known prohibition enforcement law bearing his name.

Volstead's lid clamping proclivities have not been limited simply to clamping down the lid on the national thirst.

He puts the lid on a lot of legislation, and—

He also keeps a lid on his own lips.

It was as chairman of the judiciary committee of the house that Volstead gave his name to the prohibition law and thereby won a niche in history. And it is as chairman of the same committee that he is able to sink without trace the hordes of bills, resolutions and proposals of all sorts for repealing, modifying or setting aside the enforcement law. No pigeon-holes in congress are more crowded with dust-covered, forgotten documents than those of the judiciary committee. And no lid is clamped more tightly against possible consideration and enactment of measures disapproved by the committee chairman.

Among the bills buried under the Volstead lid are proposals to amend the constitution to permit wines and liquors of 10 per cent. alcoholic content; to permit beer of 2¾ per cent. alcohol; to permit the states to decide for themselves what constitutes "intoxicating liquors" under the eighteenth amendment; to provide a national referendum on prohibition, to transfer enforcement of prohibition from the treasury to the department act, to amend the act and so on, by the score.

These bills were introduced, referred to committee—then buried. The lid clamped shut on them and they were gone! And if you try to tilt the lid, you find sitting atop of it a small but grim and very determined man who doesn't argue or plead or waste time in words, but exercises the prerogatives of his position as committee chairman and the weight of the dignity that position gives him to hold the lid firm.

"I never discuss prohibition or the prohibition enforcement act," Volstead tells you if you seek to lead him afield into consideration of the merits of light wines and beer, prohibition polls, the wet influence in politics and kindred subjects.

Therein has been much of Volstead's paternal strength in protecting his legislative progeny.

Had he tried to argue the merits of his enforcement act, his enemies might have tangled and confused his statements and made capital of them But all Volstead says is:

"It is the law. The law must be enforced." And there's no good come back to that.

But on railroads or coal mines or matters not reerred to the judiciary committee for action, Volstead will talk as freely as the most ardent advocate of booze will discuss Volstead Those issues, and no prohibition, Volstead will tell you, are the serious problems to be faced just now.

There is probably no man in congress whose name is so widely known but about whom as an individual so little is known, as Volstead.

He might aptly be described as "The Little Gray Man."

Sixty-two years of age, slight of build, unassuming in carriage and presence, the outstanding factor in his appearance is the leaden-gray overtone that seems to enshroud him.

His plain, rather darkish-gray suit matches almost perfectly in hue the gray of his mustache and his hair, which in turn blend with the gray of his eyes. His serious, almost solemn, attitude toward all subjects of discussion further cast a grayish aura about his personality. There is no suggestion of color, of gaiety, or sparkle or scintillation about him. Only suiet, earnest, serious grayness.

Born in Goodhue county, Minn., in 1860, when the state was still an outpost of our northwestern frontier, Volstead is a product of the hard-working, serious thinking people with

* have spoken to the same audi- *
* ence. *

* * * * * * * * *

In an address before the Grange Encampment at Centre Hall, Pa., this morning, Gifford Pinchot said:

"Before our State Government can be conducted openly, economically, and efficiently, many things must be done, and many changes must be made. To let in the light and clean up the mess at Harrisburg is a long, difficult, and many-sided undertaking. Without the support of the people it cannot be done at all. That is the first essential.

It is in no sense a one-man job. To carry it throught, the Governor and the Legislature must each do their part. Some things the Governor can do by himself; others the Legislature can do by itself; others can be done only by the Governor and the Legislature working together for the good of the State.

The things which the Legislature can do by itself belong to the Legislature, and do not require to be pointed out by me.

Things which the Governor can do by himself concern good housekeeping in the Government Departments at Harrisburg and throughout the State. They include such things as removing from the pay-roll office holders who do not earn their pay; protecting those who are loyal and efficient; and generally using modern business methods in the State Government.

What the Governor can do by himself is important. What the Governor and the Legislature must work together to get done is at least equally important. The Governor can submit a budget, but he cannot pass it. Only the Legislature can do that. The Governor can recommend changes in the legally established financial practice of the State, but he cannot enact the necessary legislation. Only the Legislature can do that. It is just as necessary that we should have a Legislature that will stand with the Governor in doing what ought to be done, as it is to have a Governor pledged to attempt it, and able to put it through. A Governor without a Legislature to support him is like a man without shoes walking on stony ground.

To get economy and efficiency at Harrisburg will require a complete reorganization of the Government and a thorough reconstruction of its finances. These are the big things, without which the people of Pennsylvania cannot have a good modern State Government. They have not got it now.

The Government of Pennsylvania does a fifty million dollar business every year. Many years of executive work in building up, managing, studying, and planning for the reorganization of State and National Government organization have given me a realizing sense of what the task of reorganization actually means. It will require knowledge, experience, and continuous hard work. The slapstick methods which we hear put forward on the stump would have about as much chance with it as a tinker with a lady's watch.

I am going to Harrisburg to carry out the things my platform promises. I shall do my best to offend no one ,injure no one, disregard no one. It is reasonably certain that I shall not please everyone. No Governor has to this date. Doubtless I shall not succeed in everything. But at least I will make a hard and honest try. And if at any time during the

TWO YEAR COST OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS IS SET AT 22 MILLION

Auditor General Lewis Replying To Pinchot, Says Half of Revenues Will Be Required.

PAYMENTS BEHIND

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—The next Legislature must appropriate approximately one half the general fund revenue of the state in order to maintain the present school system, according to an estimate made today by Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis. In making public fiscal information relative to school costs, a question likely to be one of the major factors in the present political campaign, Lewis reported that data in his office led to the conclusion that the schools would cost the state $45,222,356.76 during the next two appropriation years.

The analysis was made at the request of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor. A copy also was sent to Democratic candidate John A. McSparran, Governor Sproul and the King Citizens Committee.

Lewis reported that the Commonwealth today owes school districts $12,655,189.97. Over $8,000,000 of this was due on August 1st and unpaid warrants are now in the State Treasury for $4,286,853.28 due these districts February 1st this year. Warrants for the August 1st allotments have not been received from the Department of Public Instruction

Commissioner Haynes, Prohibition Director, To Be At Philipsburg

Roy Haynes, federal Prohibition commissioner of Washington, D. C., will make an address in Trinity Methodist church, Philipsburg, on Thursday evening, Sept 14th at which time the Centre County Women's Christian Temperance Union will be holding its annual convention here.

As head of the prohibition enforcement branch of the federal government Commissioner Haynes is probably more accurately informed on what is being done to enforce the Volstead law, what obstacles have been overcome and what must still be overcome to make the measure effective, than any other man in the country.

Real interest is being manifested in his forthcoming visit and address.

Poisoned Whiskey Kills Two More In New York; Total Is Ten This Week

New York, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Poisoned whiskey took two more lives here today, bringing the total up to ten since Labor Day. M. J. Connolly, aged 55, and his brother-in-law Thomas Pagen, were the latest victims. Their deaths were diagnosed as being due to wood alcohol poisoning. Three persons, two of them women, are being held in jail without bail in connection with the death of these men.

WILL ASSESS LOCAL MINERS TO PAY FOR AID TO STRIKERS

Money to provide for families of miners still on strike in District No. 2 will be raised by assessment, it was announced yesterday by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

The plan is to assess each miner who has returned to work in union operations $1 each week or $2 each pay day. This will bring into the fund approximately $90,000 every two weeks. It is estimated that 45,000 miners have returned to their jobs in mines where there has been a settlement. There ar 20,000 workmen still idle in District No. 2, according to President John Brophy.

It is expetced to put the relief plan into effect about the middle of this month. If there is no settlement in Somerset county before cold weather arrives, arrangements will be made to house families of striking miners now living in tents. There will be sufficient funds on hand, President Brophy says, to care for the needy families.

As the strike in the non-union district continues, miners are leaving the Somerset areas, moving to the union fields, President Brophy declared last night.

The attention of the international union of mine workers has been called to the wholesale evictions in the Somerset sector, President Brophy stated last night. According to union officials, families are being evicted from their homes every day thru court action. It is for these families the relief fund is being created and unless there is a settlement between the miners and operators before many weeks, the fund will be needed, it is believed.

AGED LODGE KEEPER TELLS OF MURDER OF HIS HOUSEKEEPER

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 7.—"I had her with me alone in a canoe for the first time. I asked her if she would have me, but she said I was too old. I was jealous of the young men then." Omar P. Roberts, aged 68, noted guide, made the above declaration of his motive in burning to death pretty 19-year-old Flora Gray in a confession which was introduced as evidence today. Roberts was held for the supreme court. He made a complete confession which was witnessed by several officials in which he told of the hopeless passion for the girl inspired by that one canoe ride. After being repulsed by the girl, he planned to take by force what she refused him. He crept up stairs in the hunting lodge where she, his housekeeper, lay sleeping. She resisted his assault and he rushed outside and secured a bucket of gasoline which he had in readiness, saturated with the gasoline the bundle of bedclothing in which he had bound the girl, and set fire to it.

THREE DEAD, THREE WOUNDED, WHEN INFURIATED FATHER USES SHOTGUN IN CHILDREN'S NEIGHBORHOOD FIGHT

York, S. C., Sept. 7.—Three are dead and three more are wounded here today as a result of the running amuck of William C. Farris, a textile worker at Clover, ten miles north of here last night. Farris infuriated over quarrels said to have occurred between his children and the Taylor family grabbed a shot gun loaded with buckshot and instantly killed Claude Johnson, aged 21, a cousin of the Taylors, Lela Taylor, aged 16, and Newton Taylor, aged 13, died later in a hospital from wounds received, according to authorities. Gertrude Taylor, aged 18, is wounded and is not expected to live. Fred and Dollie Taylor are also seriously wounded.

"That chap! When he was in the full cry and ecstasy of his hunt after Sabre, the perspiration streamed down his face like running oil, and he'd flap his great red tongue around his jaws and mop his streaming face and chuck away his streaming mane; and all the time he'd be stooping down to Twyning, and while he was stooping and Twyning prompting him with the venom pricking and bursting in the corners of his mouth, all the time he was stooping this chap would leave that great forefinger waggling away at Sabre, and Sabre clutching the box, and his face in a knot, and his throat in a lump and chocking out 'Look here—. Look here—'

"I tell you . . .

"I was standing right across the court at right angles to him. I was wedged tight. Scarcely breathe, let alone move. I wrote on a bit of paper to Sabre that I was here and let him get up and ask for me. Sabre snatched the thing as if he was mad at it, and read it, and buzzed it on the floor and ground his heel on it. Just to show me, I suppose. Nice! Poor devil, my gooseberry eyes went up about ten degrees. Bit later I had another shot. I—well, I'll come to that in a minute."

II

"They pushed off the case with the obvious witnesses—police, doctor, and so on. Then the thing hardened down. Then Sabre saw what was coming at him—saw it at a clap and never had remotely dreamt of it; saw it like a tiger coming down the street to devour him; saw it like the lid of hell slowly slipping away before his eyes. Saw it! I was watching him. He saw it and things—age, grayness, lasting and 'immovable calamity—I don't know what—frightful things—came down on his face like the dust of ashes settling on a polished surface.

"You see, what this Humpo fiend was laying out for was, first that Sabre was the father of the girl's child, second that he'd deliberately put the poison in her way, and brutally told her he was done with her, and gone off and left her so that she should do what she had done and be be rid of her. Yes. Yes, old man. And he'd got a case! By the living Jingo, he'd got such a case as a Crown prosecutor only dreams about after a good dinner and three parts of a bottle of port.

"Listen. Just listen and see for yourself. Worked off the police evidence and the doctor, d'you see? Then—'Mr. Bright!' Old man comes up into the box. Stands there massive, bowed with grief, chest heaving, voice coming out of it like an organ in the Dead March. Stands there like the father of Virginia thinking of Appius Claudius.

"Like this, his evidence went: Was father of the deceased woman (as they called her). Was employed as foreman at Fortune, East and Sabre's. Had seen the body and identified it. So on, so on.

"Then Humpo gets on to him. Was his daughter the sort of girl to meditate taking her life?—'Never! Never!' Great rending cry that went down to your marrow.

"Was any particular individual instrumental in obtaining for her work which took her from beneath his roof?—'There! There!' Clenched fist and half his body over the box towards Sabre.

"They shut him up.

"'Answer the question, please, Mr. Bright.'—'Mr. Sabre led to her first going from me. Mr. Sabre!'

"Was the situation thus obtained for the girl nearer her father's house or nearer Mr. Sabre's—'Not a quarter of an hour, not ten minutes, from Mr. Sabre's house.'

"Had the witness any knowledge as to whether this man Sabre was a frequent visitor at the place of the girl's situation?—'Constantly, constantly, night after night he was there!'

"'Was he, indeed?' says Humpo, mightily interested. 'Was he, indeed? There were perhaps great friends of his own standing there, one or two men chums, no doubt?'—'No one! No one!' cries the old man. 'No one but an old invalid lady, nigh bedridden, past seventy, and my daughter, my daughter, my Effie.'

"Had the witness recently been shown a diary kept by Mr. Twyning at that period?—'Yes! Yes!'

"And it contained frequent reference to Sabre's mention in the office of those visits?—'Yes! Yes!'

"Did one entry reveal the fact that on one occasion this Sabre spent an entire night there?

"'Look here—' bursts out old Sabre. 'Look here—'

"Can't get any farther. 'Yes,' groans old Bright out of his heaving chest. 'Yes. A night there.'

"And on the very next day, the

"LOOK HERE—"

very next day, did this man Sabre rush off and enlist?—'Yes. Yes.'

"Viewed in the light of the subsequent events, did that sudden burst of patriotism bear any particular interpretation?—'Running away from it,' heaves the old man. 'Running away from it.'

"'Look here—' from Sabre again. 'Look here—' Same result.

"So this Humpo chap went on, piling it up from old Bright like that, old man; and all the time getting deeper and getting worse, of course. Sabre getting the girl into his own house after the old lady's death removes the girl from the neighborhood; curious suddenness of the girl's dismissal during Sabre's leave; girl going straight to Sabre immediately able to walk after birth of child, and so on. Blacker and blacker, worse and worse.

"And then Humpo ends, 'A final question, Mr. Bright, and I can release you from the painful, the pitiable ordeal it has been my sad duty to inflict upon you. A final question: 'Have you in your own mind suspicions of the identity of this unhappy woman's betrayer?' Old man cannot speak for emotion. Only nods, hands at his breast like a prophet about to tear his raiment. Only nods.

"'Do you see him in this court?' "Old man hurls out his arms towards Sabre. Shouts, 'There! There!'

"Warm-hearted and excellent Iscariot leaps up and leads him tottering from the box; court seethes and groans with emotion; Humpo wipes his streaming face, Sabre stammers out, 'Look here— Look here—' Case goes on."

"Someone bawls, 'Next witness. Mark Sabre.'

"Court draws an enormous breath and gets itself ready for butchery to make a Tidborough holiday."

CHAPTER VI

I

HAPGOOD went on:

"He was distraught. He was speechless. He was clean crazed.

"At the very beginning, with the coroner, he wouldn't use the word 'the deceased.' Insisted on keeping calling her Effie. Coroner kept pulling him up over it, and about the twentieth time pulled him up hard.

"Poor chap threw out his arms like he was throwing the word away and then hammered on the ledge. 'I won't say deceased. I won't call her the deceased. Vile word. Horrible word. Obscene, beastly, hateful, word. I won't call her it. Why should I call her the deceased?'

"'Control yourself,' says Buddha. 'Control yourself.'

"He only waved and thumped again. 'I won't. I won't. I knew the girl. I was fond of the girl. She was my friend. She was fond of me. I did more for her than anyone in this court—her father or anyone. When she was in trouble she came to me and I succored her. She cooked my meals for me. We went through it together. I've known her for years. I've liked her for years. And now she's dead and you turn around and tell me to call her deceased. Effie. Effie! Do you hear?—Effie!'

"They couldn't stop him. He was like a sick wolf then, cornered, and Buddha like a big, wary boarhound going in at him and jumping up on the wall out of the way when he made his dashes and then coming down and going in at him again.

"'What date did the deceased leave your wife's employment?'

"'In March. Look here—'

"'Did she leave of her own wish or was she dismissed?'

"'Look here—'

"'Was she dismissed because your wife suspected you of relations with her?'

"'Look here—'

"'Answer the question, sir.'

"'Look here—'

"'Very well, sir. Answer me this question then. Is it a fact that your wife has instituted divorce proceedings against you?'

"'Look here—'

"Court surging with sensation at this dramatic disclosure. Humpo mopping his face, keeping the great forefinger going.

"'Is it the fact that in these proceedings the deceased woman is named as corespondent?'

"'Look here—'

"'You keep asking me to look here, sir, but you tell me nothing. I ask you plain questions. Have you nothing better than, "Look here?" Is it the fact that these papers were served on you at Brighton on the occasion of your flight?'

"'Flight—flight— Look here—'

"'Is it the fact?'

"'Yes. Brighton, yes. But, look here—flight! flight! Holiday, I tell you. Holiday.'

"'Holiday!' cries Humpo. 'I thank you for that word. We will examine it in a moment. Let me ask you to carry back your mind to the summer of 1915—' and he takes the unhappy man through all the stuff he had got out of old Bright—Sabre's apparently uncalled-for interest in the girl, first getting her from her father's house to the neighborhood of his own, then under his own roof, and all the rest of the unholy chain of it. Then he has a chat with Twyning, then mops himself dry, and then hurls in again.

"'Now, sir, this holiday. Did you make any preparations for it, any little purchases?'

"'No. Purchases? No. Look here—'

"'Never mind about "Look here," sir. No purchases? What about the oxalic acid? For what purpose?'

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 10 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."—Mrs. CHRIST. PETROFF, 218 W. Liberty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Men make better shorthand writers d typists than women, acording to ofessor J. M. Lahy. He made that nouncement following his experi-nt with several hundred of both xes whom he tested for speed and curacy. Paycological tests were o given, Mr. Lahy said.

"My experiments prove conclu-ely that men listen, understand d react more rapidly than women spite the higher degree of female nsitiveness.

"Women are less accurate and less pendable owing to their diffulty in ncentrating."

Objecting feminists here point out at large department stores employ usands of women therefore women ist be a success in business, but a re manager, interviewed by the tis Journal, said:

'We employ women for only two asons. First because we can hire m for less money than men, and ond, men will buy more from a man than they will from a man."

* * * *

They tell us that the Jews were on earth to get all the money and de  have no reason to believe y are not going to eventually ke good on the proposition, it is ng to be some time before they get all of Henry Ford's "stuff" away from him.

Within a year Henry Ford has accumulated more cash than probably any other man in America. Today his cash on hand amounts to more than $160,000,000 and to use the motor magnate's own words he "can't tell within fifteen million or so" just what he has in the bank.

A year ago the Ford Motor Company was just emerging from the worst depression in its history, and despite the offers of Wall Street bankers of millions for a loan, Ford succeeded by his own efforts in putting his business on its feet.

He says his refusal to deal with Wall street and banks was due to several causes. First, he says, they insisted that for a loan of a few million they should be allowed to name the Treasurer of the company and have a voice in the management of the company. Again, Ford asserts, he did not need to borrow from banks for the reason that he could see his way clear to revive his business.

With the aid of experts he ascertained what every item was costing. He turned millions of dollars tied up in surplus material into cash by stopping purchases of raw material and using what the company had. This policy holds today. It is possible to buy what is needed in the open markets and transport it to the Ford factories in a much shorter space of time than any other manufacturer.

It is estimated that Ford is able to keep at least $550,000,000 in his treasury by not buying huge quantities in advance.

Mr. Ford's next step was to make a thorough study of the transportation problems and so linking his Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad with ship connections and New York State barge transportation that he transport goods to the East for distribution much quicker and cheaper than others. In this way he saved many millions more by not having an enormous quantity of goods in storage here for the purpose of meeting orders.

The money he thus saved was immediately turned back into business. When depression hit the automobile world he eliminated all waste man power. He succeeded in producing more automobiles than during the war period with some 10,000 less men. This item alone save Ford more than $2550,000 a week in the payroll.

Ford says his success in accumulating $160,000,000 cash in the last year to say nothing of paying off more than $15,000,000 in notes and debts and building additions to the company plants, is due entirely to his desire to give purchasers of Ford cars the best possible value for their money and securing their confidence through cheap, efficient management.

Ford owns railroads, ships, mines, coal and iron, huge timber tracts, the Lincoln Motor Company and vast real estate holdings in the northern part of Michigan.

IS SUCH A FINE SPIRIT TO BE PENALIZED?

No sooner were the valiant lads of Clearfield and vicinity back to their homes from the war than they began to take their places as a moving force in our civic life, banded together in the American Legion.

One of the first things they did was to organize a Legion Post and the fact that they hold Charter No. 6 attests very strongly to their being "on their toes."

At once the Legion Post became one of the organizations of which this city is proud and their record up to date has made their reputation even more secure.

One of the really great things the American Legion has done for Clearfield is the organization of The Clearfield American Legion Band.

The band proposition was one of the first they tackled. Taking in a few of the older musicians of the city as a nucleus the Legion has spared no expense or effort to turn out a band that would be a credit to the Legion and the city.

Tomorrow morning this band, with at least two hundred rooters, will leave for the Legion Convention at Williamsport, where it will figure in the parade and we hope, in the contest.

The music committee of the convention, however, has made a ruling requiring that no band can compete except one having exclusive Legion membership; a ruling that is manifestly unfair to Post No. 6. and if there is no change in this arbitrary ruling it will be deeply resented, not only by the local Legion but by every loyal Clearfielder.

A band contest is the "dress affair" of any convention. As it stands now, while the Clearfield American Legion Band will be in Williamsport tomorrow; once there it will be "all dressed up and no place to go."

Since the day of the armistice, Post No. 6 has strived to take just such a band to a state convention, as they have built up entirely by their own efforts. Their pluck and perseverence have been jewels.

Is such a fine spirit to be penalized?

ELECTRIAL WORKERS SEEK TO RESTRAIN DAUGHERTY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—A petition to restrain United States District Attorney Payton Gordon from enforcing the Daugherty strike injunction was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The workers claimed that the Daugherty court order infringes upon their rights under the Federal constitution. They specifically asked the injunction to prevent the Government from interfering with the use of the funds of the Electrical Workers Union to pay strike benefits.

Let Johnson Do It

"Os" Long was in from the mountains this morning. He reports every thing dry as a covered bridge out that way and says that if they don't soon get some rain they propose asking the Anti-Saloon League to send out some drinking water for the rattlesnakes that are coming in droves to Anderson Creek, near the Long home to drink and bathe.

We asked the truthful mountaineer to give us a lie or nature fake that we might doll up and present to Progress readers, but "Os" said he could not do it. He was out of the lying business now as they were thinking of making him president of an organization having in mind the building of a new church out his way and he had to agree to quit lying before taking the job.

"Os" said in addition to the above and a lot of other things, that the job of "Chief truth killer" out that way had been turned over to Frank Johnson, who is an expert, and can out-wind, outspin and out lie any other fellow on the mountains between Penfield and Clearfield, bar none. He also promised to have Johnson show us his credentials when we go out that way.

whom his whole life has been cast.

Educated in public schools and at St. Olaf's college, he was admitted to the bar of Minnesota in 1884. After having served as president of the board of education, city attorney and mayor of his home town he was county attorney of Yellow Medicine county for fourteen years before being elected to congress. He is now completing his tenth term as representative. His one child—a daughter—is an attorney and is practicing law in the Volstead office at Granite City, Minn.

and failed. The Southern system is also known to be anxious to end the strike. Secretary Scott said that one big western railroad Monday asked an immediate conference to settle, and this road is believed to be the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. President H. E. Bryan said today that he "knew something" of the proposed conferences, but that he did not know whether "I am being considered in the reported session down east."

Wedge for Peace

Settlement of the strike on the Baltimore & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, the Southern, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Rock Island and Burlington systems and other roads reported favoring, they plan would soon return 85,000 miles of road back to normal, would begin important wedge for National peace and would provide a coast-to-coast belt, it is stated.

In the fact of the reported peace plan, the American Association of Railroad Executives issued a statement saying "statements that a settlement has been reached in the shopmen's strike is absolutely without foundation. The roads are standing squarely on the platform adopted at their meeting August 23, 1922."

coming four years I find it necessary, in order to get done any of the things which the voters have elected me to do, I shall go straight to the people for help. They have the power. They have the right to decide. They can get what they want by letting their servants in office know their will. I shall put the question up to them."

Missouri Fable.

Once there was an eccentric farmer who owned a steam thresher and did not drive it right through Main street in the county seat town, although by so doing he would not have been going more than four miles out of a direct line toward the place where he wished to arrive.—Kansas City Star.

Coquette's Explanation.

A young man recently asked one of the opposite sex why girls so frequently become engaged to several fellows at once. "A smoker like you shouldn't have asked that," she replied with a laugh. "When you have only one match, doesn't it generally go out?"—Boston Transcript.

YOUNGEST VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR IS BEING SOUGHT

The coming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Des Moines has brought to the fore numerous claimants to the rather paradoxical distinction of being the "youngest veteran" of the Civil War. Warren D. Second, of New Rochelle, N. Y., in applying for reservations says the honor is his, since he is only 72 years old. He has never missed a meeting of the organization.

When the subject of youthful soldiers of the Civil War is mentioned, the name of Johnny Clem, the "drummer boy of Shiloh," invariably comes to mind. He was born in Newark, Ohio, in 1851 and in May, 1861, attempted to enlist as a drummer boy with the Third Ohio Volunteers, but was rejected on account of his diminutive stature as well as his age. The following year he was accepted by the Twenty-second Michigan Infantry. At the battle of Shiloh his drum was shattered by a Confederate shell. At the battle of Chickamauga, when he was only twelve, he carried a musket instead of a drum and displayed conduct that brought him promotion to the rank of sergeant. After serving in the thickest of the fight and receiving three bullet holes through his hat, he became separated from his companions. A mounted Confederate colonel called to him to halt and surrender. Johnny halted, but did not surrender. Instead he raised his gun and shot and killed the colonel. He served throughout the war and in 1871 was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry by President Grant. This was followed by a course of training at the Fortress Monroe artillery school.

Today he is a retired major general living in Washington after a distinguished carreer in the regular army, including valuable service as quartermaster general in the Philippines. It would seem that Mr. Second, of New Rochelle, will have to yield the title of "youngest veteran" to Gen. Clem, but he may gain the place on the list indicated by his name. The Civil war more than any of our wars was notable for the conflict, and the southern army had its share.

Description That Was Apt.

Whistler once described himself as "an artist whose work is without the pale of gross popularity and whose purse is consequently not heavy with ill-gotten gold."

Family Portraits.

There is a beautiful home on Long Island that the owners wished to lease for the summer. Two parvenus with social ambition thought this residence might be the means of launching them into local society, so they went to look it over. Upon entering the boudoir of a young woman member of the family, their eyes fell upon a beautiful Madonna on the wall. They also observed a Beatrice. One of the party said, "Well, if we do take the house, will you please remove the family portraits?"—Judge.

Mississippi Longest River.

First Outside Clinic For Babies A Success In The Fourth Ward

The local chapter of the Red Cross has been greatly encouraged by the attendance and interest shown in their Thursday afternoon Baby Health Clinics held at their rooms in the Murray Building, and have planned to bring this helpful work nearer the homes of those interested who have been unable to attend, by holding outside clinics in various localities.

The first of these was held in lower East End yesterday afternoon, where Miss Dill, who is in charge of this work, and her staff spent a very interesting and instructive hour with a number of mothers with their babies, discussing health problems.

The interest and co-operation of the Junior Womans Club can always be depended upon in any matter of common interest, and a committee of their members was on hand to dispense cooling lemonade to the audience, which included about one hundred young Americans in the making, white, black, native and foreign.

This is a great work, carrying the health message where there is a hunger for it. Better Babies Make Better Citizens—the average of the health of a community comes mighty near to being a gauge of the average of its citizenship in a broad sense.

The Red Cross and its staff are at your disposal. They want you to call on them whenever you need their help. Murray Building. Bell 'phone 57, H. & C. 'phone. 39 A nominal charge is made to such persons as are able to pay, but to those who are not, the service is free.

COURT NOTES

The jury after hearing the evidence in the case of Carl Fullerton against W. B. Holmes, which was tried before Judge Bell yesterday, returned a verdict in favor of Fullerton for $162.50

This case grew out of the upsetting of a truck load of furniture which was being hauled from Boggs township to Clearfield. The truck went through a defective bridge and was really no fault of the drayman, but the jury decided he was liable to Mr. Fullerton for the damage to his furniture.

A case which is attracting considerable interest on account of its peculiar features was placed on trial in Judge Bell's court yesterday afternoon. The principals are John Miller, plaintiff, and Orville Waite, Wm. Mapstone and J. L. Gamble, defendants.

This suit grows out of an accident which occurred about the end of the rabbit hunting season last year. The three defendants, who are residents of the mining town of Moran, were out hunting rabbits near Ginter, this county. They were hunting near the home of John Miller and when a rabbit jumped up in front of them all three men fired at it with their shotguns.

Mrs. Mary Miller, an aged woman and mother of the prosecutor in this case, was sick and lying on a couch in the Miller home. A "punkin" or ounce ball from one of the shotguns entered the house and striking the sick woman in the body inflicted a serious wound.

Mrs. Miller was removed to the Cottage State Hospital and several weeks following the accident her death ensued.

Suit was then entered against Waite, Mapstone and Gamble by John Miller, the son, who is asking $10,000 for the injury to his mother.

The attorneys interested are A. R. Chase for the plaintiff and John B. McGrath for the defendants.

An Easier Job.

"Hit ain' no cinch t' manage a top-red mewl," said Charcoal Eph, ruminatively, "but ef'n a man got 'r' argue'd a red-haided wife 'bout her opinions, he hettah git hisse'f a job plowin'."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Daily Thought.

Perhaps the early grave which men weep over may be meant to save.—Byron.

Precocity.

Precocity may be defined as a form of premature mental development that is instanced when a child five years old has learned that the drumstick is not the best part of a turkey gobbler.—Houston Post.

Pineapple Leaves Valuable.

The leaves of the pineapple plant yield one of the finest of vegetable fibers, used in the Philippines for making pineapple cloth, a highly esteemed fabric for embroidery and other fancy work.

Buffaloes Roamed Far West.

Buffalo bones have recently been found in a cave in Malheur county, Oregon, 100 miles farther west than any other authoritative evidence of the occurrence of buffalo heretofore.

Principles and Sentiments.

I have all reverence for principles which grow out of sentiments; but as to sentiments which grow out of principles, you shall scarcely build a house of cards thereon.—Jacobi.

Day of Joy at Hand.

In spite of the rain that had been pelting down most of the day, Jimmy had seemed to be in unusually good spirits. When asked the cause of his beaming countenance, the young ster rattled his little bank and replied: "Daddy said I was saving my pennies for a rainy day; now it's raining an' I kin spend 'em."

Su[illegible]ate.

"He had braved a thousand dangers in the land of savage strangers, war and famine, fire and tempest, epidemics and the rest." (This was in metrical form in the London Chronicle.) "But yesterday at five (and it's lucky he's alive), he was hurt in a collision with a boy on roller skates."

HEAT WAVE WILL LOSE GRIP FRIDAY

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7.—The heat wave continued to hold the country in its grip today as far west as the Rocky Mountains. In some parts of the West there was a little fall in temperature yesterday but the heat wave threatened to fall again today. Cooler weather late Friday or Saturday was the cheering word from the Weather Bureau here. The heat wave was caused by a low over the Dakotas and a corresponding high over the Appalachians.

FEDERAL TRADE BODY OPPOSES STEEL MERGER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—The Federal Trade Commisison holds that the proposed merger of the Midvale Steel Company, Republican Iron & Steel and Inland Steel Company would violate the law and has filed a formal complaint against the completion of the merger. The Commission reported to the Senate today. The case was identical with that of the Bessemer-Lackawanna merger which the Commisison refused to sanction.

FORDSON SHOW WILL PROVE BELT'S WORTH

Every tractor owner realizes the necessity of securing the same efficiency from his tractor on power jobs as he expects from it on traction work, and every tractor owner will undoubtedly desire to attend the Fordson industrial exhibition to be held in Pittsburgh the early part of September, and be convinced that the Little Giant Fordson tractor belt, manufactured by the United States Rubber Co., Youngstown, O., is the right belt for their tractor.

The Little Giant tractor belt is an endless belt, made of stitched canvas, which has long been acknowledged as the most satisfactory and economical for power work on the farm. The Little Giant is the best grade of stitched canvas belt that can be made. Weight and strength have been put into it to more than meet the Fordson power transmission requirements. It is a quality belt in every sense of the word and will give quality service on the Fordson and the machinery with which the Fordson is used.
